Christopher Would Uphold The Family Allowances

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—Rep. George Christopher (D-Mo.) quoted the Bible in House debate on the armed services pay boost bill.

Supporting an amendment to direct that present family allowances for enlisted men be continued for the duration of their service after July 1, 1946, the Missouri House today.

The House seems to be trying to fulfill prophecy.

The book says unto him that hath shall be given, that he may have in abundance, and from him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath. That is exactly what this bill seeks to do.

He said he did not think the government should violate a contract it had made with enlisted men in allowances for family dependents.

I would rather be stripped naked and beaten and kicked out of town on a rail than to stand up here on the floor of this House and vote to take away the allowance of a family man in the army," he said.

The amendment by Rep. Carroll (D-Colo.) was adopted but the bill itself later was sent back to the House armed services committee for further study. Backers said this meant the death of the bill.

Earlier Rep. Bolling (D-Mo.) proposed unsuccessfully an amendment which would have reduced the pay of four high grades of officers as provided by the legislation.

He declared the amendment would "bring order out of chaos, modernize an antiquated and patched-up pay allowance and retirement system."

The armed services he said, must be more financially attractive if the high type of young men and women required by national defense are to be retained.

His amendment he added, also took into consideration, the fact that the higher ranks carry with them "substantial special privileges and benefits."

Nuns See Movie For First Time

ST. LOUIS, May 27 (AP)—Several nuns had an exciting experience yesterday attending a regular showing of a movie for the first time.

They were members of a group of 150 Sisters of Charity who went to a French movie about St. Vincent de Paul, the founder of their Order.

The Nuns sat together in a balcony at the St. Louis theater where movie-goers were barred from the balcony. Nuns from the city's schools and institutions in St. Louis, Perryville, Mo. and Alton, Ill. were driven to the movie house in buses and automobiles.

The Nuns obtained special permission from the head of the theater to see the film in a public theatre after they were unable to arrange a special screening of the picture.

Holiness

Holiness is the proper mark of every true lover of God. Yet it is a quality often misunderstood. Holiness is not an ostentatious affectation of piety. It is a humble, wholehearted dedication to goodness and truth. The holy man may occasionally succumb to temptation, but his eyes are always on God. His abiding aim is to pattern his life in conformity with His will.

Holiness is not on the lips, but in the heart. Sentimentality has nothing to do with sanctity. Some of the world's greatest sinners have shown a real capacity for kindness and sympathy, but have never been persuaded to abandon a single one of their vices.

On the other hand, great saints have sometimes been outwardly, at least—the most phlegmatic of souls, almost repellent in their prosaic and aloof attitudes. Only God and their closest intimates have known the burning tenderness, love, and devotion of their innermost hearts.

No one can infallibly assert who among his friends or acquaintances possesses holiness. This faculty belongs exclusively to God, who created man and alone can read his soul. Nor would those who have holiness ever lay claim to this supreme quality. Humility and a sense of personal unworthiness invariably go hand in hand with genuine sanctity.

However, although humility forbids a man ever to claim holiness, he must continually strive to earn this happy distinction. At no time may he dare raise his voice to heaven except to acknowledge his weakness and dependence, or to praise God and ask Him for aid and protection. But he may and should hope to attain the perfection which was the mark of Christ and should be the goal of all who follow Him.

The lovers of God must be content to practice virtue, to respect His laws, to exercise patience in suffering, to pray and deny themselves. This is made easy only by a firm conviction that God, in the hour of final judgment, will hail them worthy to stand forever in the blessed company of His saints.

Sunday School Lesson

Gethsemane: A Symbol of Suffering
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.
Gethsemane is indeed a symbol of suffering. We speak of those undergoing extreme suffering, and in agony, as "passing through Gethsemane"; but the Gethsemane, in the garden where Jesus agonized in waiting, watching and praying, was not a symbol. It was a real and terrible fact. It was because of that suffering of "a man acquainted with grief" that Gethsemane has become a symbol of suffering; and the triumph of the Master in that dark hour ought to be a symbol of the way of triumph for those sorely distressed and oppressed.

What was the nature of the Master's suffering? And how did He triumph? It is clear from the record that His suffering was physical, so acute that He sweat drops of blood, but this physical suffering was only the outward accompaniment of agony of mind and soul. The Master, who but a few days previously had been hailed as a King in His triumphal entry into Jerusalem, was now facing the cross. That in itself might well have been an agonizing prospect, but we may be sure that it was not any physical fear that perplexed and distressed Him.

Deeper than all else was the question regarding His destiny, and the Father's will. Was it the only way? Temptations similar to those that He had met at the beginning of His public ministry must have shaken Him in that hour. It was His doubts, rather than His fears, that were expressed in that earnest prayer that the cup might pass. And the triumph over all doubts and fears was in that calm achievement through prayer. "Nevertheless not as I will, but as Thou wilt."

Apart from its place in the whole Gospel story of tragedy, triumph, and good news, the experience in Gethsemane is significant for its revelation of the true humanity of the divine Christ. He who was to be the Sufferer on the Cross was there a man in agony, praying to see the right way and for the will and strength to follow it.

It was the experience that in lesser degree has come to many men and women in suffering, or faced with some crucial decision or threatening danger. And it is in the very nature of such a crisis of suffering or danger, for the soul to cry out in doubt, and to yearn for some convincing voice of God.

Job's temptation in the acuteness of his distress was to "curse God and die." In the crisis of Gethsemane it is not a matter of bearing pain, of enduring suffering. Back of all that, as many who have faced the crisis know, is the question, "Why? Why?" That question is not always answered.

God watches over the sparrow's full, but we are not told why the sparrow falls. But to the waiting, watchful soul, in earnest prayer comes the answer as it comes to the Master, the consciousness that God is near, and God is leading. "Arise, let us go hence."

Out of Gethsemane came triumph. "The Kingdom is At Hand," Sunday 2:00 p. m. at Kingdom Hall, 721 East Third.

CHURCH OF CHRIST, Fourteenth and Stewart avenue. Services Lord's day morning beginning at 10:30. Bible lesson 4th chapter of Revelation. Communion at 11:30. Evening service at 7:30. ## Anniversary Service Sunday

Dedication and anniversary services will be held at the First Baptist church chapel, Sixteenth street and Hancock avenue, on Sunday afternoon at 2:30. Dr. John W. Dowdy, president of Southwest Baptist College, Bolivar, will bring a special message for the occasion and Rev. Donald Momborg, who is the Chapel Pastor, will preside.

The property at Sixteenth and Hancock streets was purchased by the First Baptist church of Sedalia in April 1918. Following the purchase of the property, the building was decorated on the interior and made ready for Sunday school, worship services and other religious activities. Several members of the First Baptist church and many residents in the community contributed liberally in time and effort in getting this work done.

The Sunday school began with a attendance of 40 and the enrollment has grown to 107 at the present time. Other organizations have been set up, such as training union and auxiliaries of the Women's Missionary society. Prayer service each week and two worship services each Sunday are being maintained.

Rev. Donald Momborg was employed by the First Baptist church as chapel pastor and he has been serving since January.

'Divine Guidance' To Avert War

WASHINGTON, May 27.—(AP)—The Truman declared Thursday that only through "divine guidance" can the world avert war.

He signed a proclamation calling upon the nation to observe "a national day of prayer" on May 31. He asked collective "national prayer" on the morning of that day.

"This sacred day is a fitting occasion on which the people of our nation, all of whom, directly or indirectly, have been heretofore by your terrible toll may appeal to Almighty God for help in turning the steps of the world to the paths of permanent peace."

"These paths are long and tortuous and thus far mankind has not had the wisdom to find the way to an enduring peace," the President said.

He designated 9 a. m. (CST) as a time at which all Americans may unite in a prayer for that peace.

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 26.—(AP)—Margaret "Gypsy" Walters Horn, 25, a university of Missouri coed must wait until Saturday afternoon to learn whether she will be released from jail on a writ of habeas corpus.

She is charged with setting fire to a university rooming house May 13.

Her attorney Edwin C. Orr carried her case to Circuit Judge W. M. Dinwiddie this afternoon after Magistrate Temple Morgett held Mrs. Horn for trial earlier in the day following a two-day preliminary hearing.

Judge Dinwiddie interrupted a civil case to hear the habeas corpus motion but when Orr sought to subpoena all of the witnesses who had testified at the preliminary hearing for a re-play of those on the witness stand, he denied the request for an immediate hearing. He set the hearing for Saturday afternoon.

Orr then advised his client to go home but Sheriff Glen Powell took her back to jail, despite Orr's promise to sue him for imprisoning the girl illegally.

Providence Church Session Is Called

ISLAND OF ESCAPE

THE SIGHT: The violent death of Lilly Warren has upset the routine of Henry Gough Harding's island of escape, Speare Island. Lilly was found shot in a suit of a fusillade railway running to the store room on the beach. None but Mrs. Gough knows that Lilly was killed by the automobile which she hid among the sugar sacks in the kitchen the day she arrived. An inquest is held at which were: one Harding, Miss Gough, Agnes Birch, Mabel Jones, Fred Sillwell, George Macomber, Mollie Stark and Nona McGuire. All have alibis but Harding asks, where did the gun come from? He says that all the guns on Sillwell's yacht which was shipwrecked on the island were 25 or 30 caliber while this gun was a Mauser 700, about a 32.

XVI

FRED SILLWELL snapped his fingers. "Wait a minute I just remembered I picked up a little automatic in a shop the day before we sailed. It had Walferenfabrik Mauser A. G. Oberndorf A. N. Mauser's Patent stamped on one side. And the serial number just in front of that. Three hundred thousand and something. Six figures anyhow. I packed it away in oil rags in a water-tight tin box and forgot it. I don't think any of the others knew I had it. Does that help you any?"

Miss Gough could have supplied the rest of the serial number from memory.

There was no doubt in Bea's mind that the gun was the one she had smuggled onto Speare Island and had hidden among the sugar sacks on the night of her arrival. She also recalled the gently swinging door that had aroused her suspicions after she had hidden the gun.

Harding took the gun from his pocket and looked at it closely. "The first number is correct. I think it is clear this is your weapon. I am glad to have that detail explained."

BEA'S pencil point broke. She reshaped it quickly, looked up to meet George's glance. He returned quickly toward Sillwell, his lips twisted down at the corners.

"There is only one other thing," Harding said. "Motive. I have left that for the last because of a personal element. Also I wanted to keep everything fair and impartial until the method by which she obtained the weapon was ascertained."

"Last night I was forced to speak plainly to Mrs. Warren. Perhaps I spoke too sternly. It seemed the kindest thing at the time a surgeon's stroke. I was forced to tell her bluntly I would not consider marrying her."

Henry Harding staid, found George's face completely expressionless. "She was," he admitted. "I'm sure she would not have married me if I had not been a doctor."

Harding rapped on the table sharply. Ladies and gentlemen of Speare Island, you have heard the facts of the case. It has been proven no one on this island could have been near Mrs. Lilly Warren at the time of her death. The method by which she obtained the weapon is clear. I will write into the record a statement absolving Mr. Sillwell from any responsibility. She obtained the automatic from me by an act of God. I have told you her reason for the deed, explained her state of mind. I am sure you will all agree there can be but one just verdict. Are there any further questions?"

There was silence.

"Very well," Henry Gough Harding said. "Mrs. Gough you will enter the verdict of this court. Mrs. Lilly Warren came to her death by a self-inflicted gunshot wound while of a temporarily un-sound mind."

HENRY HARDING brought dynamite from the large supply in the storeroom and planted it skillfully in the hole scooped from the shallow topsoil. The bedrock was shattered for a foot or two and pieces and dirt blew in all directions.

The flowering plant on the grave of A. Robie was clipped off neatly at its base by a flying fragment. "It's deep enough," Harding said.

George Macomber and Fred Sillwell helped him lower the suffened canvas-wrapped body of Lilly Warren into the grave. The women, with the exception of Mollie, stood and watched.

Harding picked up a shovel and tossed it in some dirt and rock. "Aren't you going to say something?" Agnes Birch asked hesitantly.

"Say something?" Harding snapped. "What do you want me to say? Dust to dust? The only thing to say is that it is unfortunate Mrs. Warren's weaknesses should inconvenience others."

He began shoveling again.

Pea Gough heard Nona McGuire draw in her breath sharply. She put her hand on the younger woman's arm in time to stop an outburst.

They watched while Harding and Macomber filled in the shallow hole. They turned in silence and fled slowly toward the main house.

Harding washed his hands thoughtfully at the kitchen sink, then joined the rest in the main room. He smiled slyly. "I have thought of a way out of the present difficulty," he said. "For the time being, I will ask Miss McGuire to take over the house duties and the cooking. I will get a black dress for you, Mrs. McGuire, in place of the green you're wearing."

"I'm glad to know what was worrying you," Nona said too sweetly. "Now what would you like for lunch? Fudge or a tossed salad. That's all I know how to cook."

House Passes Bill On Sexual Perverts

JEFFERSON CITY, May 27.—Persons found by a court to be criminal sexual perverts would be sent to a hospital for treatment under a bill passed unanimously by the House of Representatives Thursday.

It now goes to the Senate. The bill provides that if a person is charged with a criminal sex offense, and it appears to the prosecuting attorney the person is a mental case, a petition is filed with the clerk of the court stating the nature of the trouble. An examination would be made by two court-appointed doctors and the person would be tried by jury.

If found guilty the pervert would be sent to the state hospital at Fulton for treatment.

Third Reprieve Granted Bird

WALLA WALLA, Wash., May 27.—(AP)—Like Bird has escaped a date with the hangman for the third time. The long calendar of Bird's career involves more than two years of killings in several states so-called 'hex deaths' of five men connected with the case and a dozen court battles which took him to the United States supreme court. Now a new date is added.

It reads May 26, 1919—the ninth circuit court of appeals, at San Francisco, grants a 30-day stay for a hearing on whether another appeal can be entertained in the case. The previous death dates which were also cancelled were Jan. 16, 1918 and Jan. 14, 1919.

The 48-year-old Negro was told of the reprieve five minutes before he was to have been moved to a prison death cell at noon for his midnight execution. Bird is under sentence to hang for killing Mrs. Retha Bluff of Tacoma Oct. 31, 1917. Her daughter was also slain.

The 'hex' was attributed to Bird after he told superior Judge J. D. Hodges his trial judge, all of you who had anything to do with this case will die before I do.

In succeeding months Judge Hodges, Under Sheriff Joe Kaupch, Chief Clerk Ray Scott, Detective Sherman Lyons and his Defense Attorney, J. W. Selden, all died. But only yesterday in what was to have been his last talk with a newspaper, Bird said: 'The hex is a lot of hooey.'

When you gotta stop—you wanna stop!

"It can stop on a dime," the salesman promised you, "—and leave nine cents change!"

And your Buick did—when it was new and brake linings unworn and everything factory-tight and fresh.

But brake linings wear—lights grow dim with time—tires can lose their bite and traction.

And with a whole summer's driving ahead, what better time than this to bring your Buick back to new-car peak in all those details that mean so much to safety?

Our men, trained in Buick ways, will give you brakes that stop you as Buicks should, with new brake linings that are right in size and brake drums turned to perfect round.

They can replace sealed-beam headlights to give you new-bulb brilliance—and while they're at it, check battery, voltage, wiring and headlamp aim to boot.

They'll check tires, switch them as needed, look into wheel alignment for easy steering.

In a word, they'll renew your Buick with the same care and interest they would lavish on their own—and do it at no greater cost than for just ordinary service.

So drop in. Get set for some summer fun that's up to lively Buick standard.
